Dear Sheriff Chapman,

In September 2015, Pope Francis made his first journey to the United States of America. He began this historical visit in Washington, D.C., spending three days in the District, (September 22-24, 2105). Because of the large crowds expected and the security concerns, the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) requested assistance from our fellow Law Enforcement Agencies within the National Capital Region (NCR).

Your agency answered our request and participated in this multi-agency Papal Security Detail. They were professional and courteous and represented your agency in a manner in which you should be proud. During this Papal Visit the eyes of the world were upon the District of Columbia and the fine law enforcement officers supporting this security detail. Each and every member rose to the occasion and performed in an exemplary manner.

Please allow this letter to serve as recognition for the tremendous contributions made by members of your department during this historic event. Thank you again for your support!

Sincerely,

Sheriff Chapman,

The purpose of this letter is to recognize the contribution of Loudoun County Sheriff's Office Deputies Nathan House #9629, Matthew Devaney #2119, Joshua McKim #2274, and Timothy James #9114. Their expertise, professionalism and generosity of time enabled our Agency to successfully investigate and conclude a reckless handling of firearm while hunting case. These types of incidents are problematic in that it is often difficult to obtain enough evidence to prosecute.

This particular case involved a bullet traveling through a residence while the owners were home. House, McKim, and James were first to arrive, locate the hunter, and secure the necessary items needed for evidence. Their knowledge of the area and ability to recognize important factors needed for our agency to investigate is a tribute to their skills as law enforcement professionals. Devaney processed evidence for us, enabling our efforts to concentrate on interviews and scene analysis.

The efforts by House, Devaney, McKim, and James often go unrecognized by the public – but their assistance and knowledge is invaluable. Please thank them on our behalf and do not hesitate to call if there is anything we can do for you or your Department.

Sincerely,

Dear Major Fiano: Richie

As you are aware, on October 21, 2015, the Purcellville Police Department held a community forum regarding the upsurge of heroin use in our communities. The forum was held at Purcellville's Town Hall and there were approximately 75 people in attendance.

Captains Mark Caminiti and Greg Ahlemann supported our event by attending and this support is much appreciated. Detective Paul Loconti provided the group with valuable information regarding the trending of heroin, what makes it easy to obtain, how people get addicted, and what law enforcement is doing to fight the battle. He also provided information on programs the criminal justice system is involved in to help those addicted and programs in place to help prevent addiction. It was evident that Detective Loconti is well versed on the topic, and he was very comfortable sharing information with the group. His approachable personality made it easy for engagement with the audience, which allowed a great platform for information sharing.

Again, thank you for supporting our agency and allowing your staff to participate in our community forum. It was because of this cooperation the forum was successful. Many residents walked away knowing a great deal more about the topic and what resources are available to combat the addiction. Please share my thanks with Detective Loconti. Thank you again for your support!

Sincerely,

Nov 6th, 9:38am

This morning I was very pleased to see an act of open kindness and care on the way to work. A homeless man was walking on the highway and as he came off there were two Loudoun County Sheriff's cars pulled well off to the side of the road (around the corner away from the traffic). The officers came around the corner and waited for the him so he wouldn't see the cars and wouldn't feel threatened (at least that's my assumption). The man saw the officers, stopped and put his hands up behind his head. The lead officer approached him kindly and put out his hand and greeted that man with a warm smile and a hand shake, the man immediately relaxed. I didn't get to see the rest of the exchange, but I can say it made me happy to know this man was treated respectfully when interacting with the authorities. I did see the man walking with his cart about 10 minutes later after I dropped my daughter off at daycare. Thank you Officer Smiley Handshakes for a good story for me to share.

On October 6-9, 2015, Victoria Slade assisted us by sitting on an interview panel for our vacant Crime Analyst position.

I requested for her to sit on the panel due to her expertise in the field. She graciously accepted after receiving approval from her Supervisors. The interviews were supposed to be three days but ended up being four days due to unforeseen circumstances with scheduling.

Thank you for allowing Mrs. Slade to assist us with the interviews during her work week. I certainly realize that time away from her daily duties impacts all, therefore I appreciate her assistance greatly. Her input in the process was very valuable.

If I or the PWC Crime Analysis Unit can be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to let me know.
